RE: Proceeding 16-106 - Protecting the Privacy of Customers of Broadband and Other
Telecommunications Services

Dear Chairman Wheeler,

I'm writing to strongly object to your brazen hypocrisy! Your so-called Internet privacy rules are a sham! They give a free pass to the Obama Administration's biggest corporate supporter "ñ Google! What a farce of the greatest magnitude!

Just as your net neutrality rules exempt President Obama's multi-billion dollar corporate cronies from having to follow them, your new privacy rules have a Google-sized special interest carve-out, again! Why?

Why is the FCC not planning to regulate a certain business practice, but rather to selectively regulate that practice by certain companies but not others?

Why do the rules about privacy exclude the biggest corporate collector of my personal data?

Why does the FCC not care about my privacy? Why do you care about protecting Obama's biggest corporate benefactor and nothing more? Anyone who is paying attention can see that Google and the FCC are working together for their own interests "î not mine.

If our online data and privacy are so important to protect, why are you giving a free pass to the worst privacy violator in the history of the world? Why are you going out of your way to protect Google, Obama's biggest corporate patron?

What you are doing is an insult to my intelligence. A government takeover of the Internet on one hand with special interest carve-outs for Obama's multi-billion dollar corporate cronies on the other: What a disgrace!

Chairman Wheeler, you have been caught red-handed. Clean up your actions and protect my privacy!

Sincerely,
John Lee
